The drama is still undissolved.

If the city authorities of El Paso do not interfere with the local pistol totes they will gradually disappear from their customary haunts.

Since the 'Frisco strike and the Haywood trial have begun, the Ruef trial seems to have been lost sight of, except probably by Ruef and Heney.

The Pittsburg steel men who are being tried for defrauding the government by selling phony boiler tubes for warships will probably plead an attack of Pittsburg paranoia.

The next thing for Globe to go after is free mail delivery. The postoffice receipts are more than enough to justify the inauguration of a delivery system, but sidewalks must be laid and houses numbered.

Sir William Ramsay says the report that he had invented a way of making copper synthetically was all a hoax. We might have taken slight credence in the report if that word hadn't been used.

The public service corporations in Globe are certainly getting next. The water company is going to lay new mains and the electric company is going to give us day juice. The first thing we know the ice plant will be selling ice at less than $1 a hundred and the gas plant will be turning out gas that gives light and heat.

The city council was in a most generous mood last night and raised salaries all around, except to those officials who are professional men. The argument that a policeman should get at least "as much as a miner" seems to be inapplicable so far as the poor doctor, lawyer and engineer are concerned.

SEWERS FOR GLOBE

The city council has at last tackled the sewer problem and it is up to that body to "go through" with it, now that they have undertaken it. We believe that there is one thing that the property owners of Globe are unanimous in, and that is, the city's need of an efficient sewer system. No adequate sanitary precautions can be maintained without sewerage in Globe, owing to the rocky hills on which the city is built, and the sooner we have a good system the sooner will the city be a better and healthier place to live in.

But no definite steps should be taken without first investigating the most modern and up-to-date sewerage methods and we believe that the council should make a thorough examination of the septic tank system and what is known as the Pasadena system before awarding a contract for either plans and specifications or for the actual work. The latter system is considered by recognized experts as the most desirable. It is in use in the city of Pasadena and it is not alone self sustaining, but also a source of revenue to the city. The council should also give thorough consideration to the matter of water for flushing purposes. If satisfactory arrangements cannot be made with the local water company, plenty could be obtained elsewhere at comparatively little cost.

But at any rate, we want sewers.

WHEN THEY STRIKE

Despite the attempts of the American workingman for the strike record, his attempts aren't in it with those of his Gallic brother over in the French republic, the home of socialism and the "international industrial" movement. But there have been numerous collisions between what has been termed the "social instinct" of the French people and the unsocial demands of the French "Socialist Party." Recently there has been a striking instance of this fundamental opposition.

A French trans-Atlantic liner, April 22, was departing from St. Nazaire for Vera Cruz. Just before the departure the waiters, or, as they would be called on a British liner, the "table stewards," struck for an increase of pay. The demand was, of course, in itself an absurdity, since the "table steward" relies for his subsistence not on his wages, but on tips. Moreover, it was clearly a "hold-up." The unfortunate agent at the port of departure found himself helpless. He had no authority to increase the pay of the waiters. He informed them that he would transmit their claim to headquarters, but that the ship would sail on schedule time. They stayed on board, but the ship was no sooner well out at sea than the waiters made a "sympathetic strike" with the waiters, and she had to put back to port. After a delay, very annoying of course to the passengers, there was a compromise reached, and the ship proceeded.

It seems that the waiters were very ill advised. They are registered as sailors. A strike at sea on the part of sailors is by the French code mutiny, and very severely punishable as such. Every strike of the socialist variety depends for its success upon the degree of inconvenience it can inflict upon innocent third parties. But the waiters in this case omitted to consider their legal liabilities. Nobody ever saw a waiter who was "affected with a public interest." But a French stoker is by law so affected. The sympathetically striking waiters were in this case affected, and are likely to rue their action. The law is, of course, entirely just. Before the wisdom of Chief Arthur put the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers on a sounder footing than it had occupied before, the engineers had been in the habit, when a strike was ordered, of quitting their trains, wherever their trains might be when the hour of striking struck, thus inflicting grave inconvenience or worse upon the passengers, who had nothing to do with their quarrel.

HOW STOCK MAY BE SUBSCRIBED

President Smith of Old Dominion Copper Mining Company in Letter to Stockholders Explaining Rights in Issue of Remaining Shares.

Boston, Mass., May 2, 1907.

To the Stockholders:
The directors have this day voted to offer to the stockholders of record at the close of business May 10th, 1907, the right to subscribe, upon the terms hereinafter stated, for new stock in the company in the proportion of one share of new stock for each twenty-four shares which they hold respectively; that is, a right will attach to each share of the then outstanding stock to subscribe for one-twenty-fourth of a share of new stock, but subscriptions must be for full shares. Subscriptions under holdings that are not multiples of twenty-four shares may be adjusted by the purchase or sale of rights. Sellers of rights should not subscribe thereunder. The company will not buy or sell rights. The aggregate of the new stock so to be issued will not exceed 12,000 shares.

The right to subscribe will expire at the close of business, May 27, 1907. The new stock is to be subscribed for at fifty (50) dollars per share (par being $25), payable in two equal installments, June 10th, 1907, and July 10th, 1907. Subscriptions, assignments and payments will be received only at the office of the company. Payment of the second installment may be anticipated on June 10th, 1907, and interest on any anticipated payment will be allowed at the rate of 5 per cent per annum, payable when certificates of stock are delivered.

If payments are not made when due, subscriptions may be declared void by the company, and any previous payment thereon may be declared forfeited. Warrants will be issued to each stockholder, specifying the amount to which he is entitled to subscribe under this privilege, and no subscriptions will be valid unless made on such warrants. All necessary signatures must be guaranteed by some member of the Boston stock exchange or acknowledged before a notary public.

The owners of a large majority of the stock of the company have already announced their intention of availing themselves of the privilege to subscribe for the new stock. The sale of the whole issue of new stock has been unwritten without any commission by persons closely allied with the company.

The outstanding capital stock of your company is 281,609 shares of the par value of $25 each. This amount was issued to acquire 140,804 shares of a total of 150,000 shares of stock in the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company, the entire capital stock of the United Globe Mines, 23,000 shares, of the par value of $100 each, formerly owned by members of the firm of Phelps Dodge & Co., and for working capital. The directors have from time to time extended the privilege offered to stockholders of the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company to exchange their stock for stock in your company. If the remaining 6,391 shares of that stock now held otherwise than by your company are exchanged, the total outstanding stock of your company, independently of the new issue, will be 288,000 shares. The total authorized capital is 350,000 shares, so that after the issue of the 12,000 shares of new stock now provided for, there will remain unissued 50,000 shares of the stock of your company.

At the time of the organization of your company, in January, 1904, the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company was already engaged in developing and improving its mining properties upon a large scale. This development work and the improvements have been continued ever since, and additional properties have been acquired by that company.

Further large outlays are necessary for additional improvements. The ore reserves have increased so rapidly that among other additions, reduction works capable of producing approximately 30, 000,000 pounds of copper per annum are deemed necessary.

The improvements already made and contemplated are of a nature properly chargeable to capital account. They have been hitherto provided for from the earnings of the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company, and from loans made upon it. The directors of that company have voted to issue 12,000 shares of stock, at $50 a share, and your company will subscribe for its pro rata of that stock, viz., 11,489 shares. The proceeds of the new stock will enable the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company to provide for the improvements now contemplated and will furnish it a reasonable amount of working capital. With the provision thus made the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting company will be in a position to soon commence the payment of dividends. And with this new source of income, it is expected that the dividends of your company will be increased.

The mines controlled by your company are rapidly reaching a condition where a large production at a small cost may reasonably be expected.

Within the last few months two important ore bodies have been developed; one in the westerly end of the mine, which, so far as opened, is superior to any body of ore ever uncovered in the Globe camp, and one recently developed on the 14th level, near the old Interloper shaft. This latter body is a sulphide, rich in copper, and gives evidence of being extensive and permanent.

The developments which have been carried on in other parts of the mine have been satisfactory and all that your directors could expect.

On account of the excessive flow of water, a shaft has been sunk in the westerly portion of the mine, by means of which, in connection with improved pumping machinery, the cost of pumping will be greatly reduced. When this is done the mining of these rich ores will be undertaken.

The development of the Continental mine, as well as of the United Globe and Old Dominion mines, have uncovered more sulphide ore, so that at the present time more than 50 per cent of the sulphide ore required is being obtained from mines controlled by your company. It is expected that soon the necessity of importing sulphide ore will have been wholly overcome, and that the mines controlled by your company will furnish not only the sulphur, but also the iron ore, lime and other ores required for the most economical smelting mixture. The lack of sufficient sulphides, hitherto a serious handicap to the mines controlled by your company, will thus have been overcome.

Respectfully submitted, per order of the board of directors,
CHARLES S. SMITH,
Vice President.

COPPER PRICE MANIPULATION

Houston & Co. Make Comprehensive Statement Regarding Recent Slump—Any Halt in the Consumption of the Metal Will Be Temporary Only.

D. Houston & Co. say of copper: The market quietness of the past month should not disturb anyone. It is only an incident in the march of events.

The few apparently anxious sellers who have given such wide publicity to their desire to find customers for limited offerings at prices under the regular market have an object in view, but consumers know full well that these cheap sellers are utterly unable to supply anything like the large total requirements of the trade.

A bona fide seller does not usually resort to tactics that will injure his own market by crying down his wares and depreciating the goods he offers. There is a motive back of it whenever he does so.

If the demand falls off during the next six months the market will record the fact, and the price will undoubtedly be adjusted to whatever conditions may develop. But with scores of millions of pounds of copper yet to be delivered during the next three months there is not much danger of non-speculative sellers precipitating demoralization among manufacturers by making a wild rush for new orders before deliveries due customers are nearly completed.

Copper nowadays is produced to be sold and not to be accumulated. The magnitude of demand will regulate the market. If business slows down the last half of 1907 the market for copper will have to recognize and reflect the fact. A tremendous consumption has given strength and buoyancy to the market hitherto, and the future course of prices will depend upon the relation of demand to supply.

There is reason to expect ultimate expansion of consumption. If a halt should occur at any time it will only be temporary. The electrification of railroads and the introduction of electricity as a motive power are to supersede old methods. The trend of the age points to a wider use of copper than ever before, and there is ample ground to expect it. At the moment the market is a waiting one and its future course will be conditional upon the nature of developments between now and the next general buying movement.
